part II question and answers About HIV

Transmission

1) How is HIV Transmitted?

HIV is spread when blood, semen or vaginal fluids from a person living with HIV who is not vitally suppressed gets into the bloodstream of another person. These body fluids are present during sexual activity which explains why HIV can be passed from one person to another during different sexual behavior and sexual behaviors. The risk of transmission depends on the type of sexual behavior: oral sex when a person puts his or her mouth on another person's genitals, has a low risk of passing HIV. vaginal intercourse, when a man puts his penis inside a woman, is a higher risk activity for passing HIV. The sexual behavior with the highest risk is anal intercourse, when a man puts his penis into the anus of another man or woman. If either partner is living with HIV, the virus may be transmitted especially if blood is present during sex. The risk of transmission for any of these behaviors can be lower in a variety of ways including:

- ⊗ condom use (see question H5)
- ⊗ Antiretroviral treatment for the person living with HIV
- ⊗ PrEP = exposure prophylaxis or PrEP, a daily medication that a person who is not living with HIV can take to protect themselves (see question H5V)

A person living with HIV who is on HIV treatment and virally suppressed for months or longer has effectively no risk of pas

HIV to a partner through sex.

Substance Use Transmission :-

Sharing needles and working during injection drug use is a high-risk behavior for passing HIV from one person to another. In some cases, blood may be present in the needle syringe, cooker, or water used during injecting. HIV can be easily passed when people share any of these equipment items. By always using sterile injection equipment and not sharing equipment, can help protect people who inject drugs from HIV. A special assessment must be conducted for people who inject drugs from 18 years of age who request enrollment in syringe exchange programs. To find syringe exchange programs near you visit www.thepointny.org. People who inject drugs may also consider taking PrEP, a daily medication that can prevent an HIV negative person from getting HIV. please see question 6 & 7 to find out more about how to protect yourself and obtain new injection equipment in New York State.

Mothers to child Transmission :-

HIV can also be transmitted from mothers to child. please see question #3 for more information.

Blood Transfusion :-

At the beginning of the AIDS epidemic, some people became a person with an HIV diagnosis from receiving a blood transfusion. With testing of the blood supply since 1985, there is no longer a risk of getting HIV when receiving a transfusion.

2) What are the ways that HIV cannot be transmitted?
HIV is not like the flu or a cold. It is not passed through casual contact or by being near a person who with HIV. It cannot be transmitted through saliva, shaking hands, kissing, mosquito bites, living in the same house as someone living with HIV (including sharing utensils or drinking cups), using restrooms, swimming pools, hot tubs, or drinking fountains.

3) Can a woman living with HIV pass the virus on to her baby?
Yes. A woman who has HIV can pass the virus to their baby during:
* pregnancy
* delivery
* breastfeeding

There were medicines that a woman living with HIV should take during pregnancy, labor and delivery to protect her health and greatly reduce the chance that she will pass the virus to her baby. Medication is also important for all women to know their HIV status before they become pregnant, or these medicines and make informed decisions. A second HIV test is also recommended late in the pregnancy to identify if the woman was exposed to HIV during the pregnancy. Since HIV is also found in breast milk, women living with HIV should not breastfeed their babies.

4. What does undetectable = untransmittable (otherwise known as U=U) mean?

U=U means undetectable = untransmittable. It was put forth by the Prevention Access Campaign (<https://www.preventionaccess.org/undetectable>). The prevention access campaign is a health equity initiative to end the dual epidemics of HIV and HIV-2.

stigma by empowering people living with, and vulnerable to HIV, with accurate and meaningful information about their social, sexual, and reproductive health.

In developing $U=U$, the prevention Access campaign reviewed the findings into a statement which many leading scientists and public health organizations have endorsed.

The $U=U$ consensus statement is people with HIV on ART with an undetectable viral load in their blood have a negligible risk of sexual transmission of HIV. Depending on the drugs employed it may take as long as six months for the viral load to become undetectable. Continued and reliable HIV suppression requires selection of appropriate agents and excellent adherence to treatment. HIV viral suppression should be monitored to assure both personal health and public health benefits.

When making decisions about HIV prevention, individuals and couples should explore their level of comfort with the full range of prevention options and make decisions regarding use of $U=U$, condoms or PEP accordingly.
